SHOPEASY – ONLINE SHOPPING WEBSITE

Project Explanation, Features and Development

HTML and CSS Website Project Report

Includes the website output screenshot and readable HTML/CSS source code. JavaScript code and JavaScript explanations are excluded.

1. INTRODUCTION

ShopEasy is an online shopping website interface created using HTML and CSS. It presents a colorful shopping banner, category navigation, and eight featured products. Each product card displays an image, name, description, rating, current price, previous price, discount, and an Add to Cart button.

The purpose of this project is to demonstrate how HTML structures an e-commerce page and how CSS makes the layout attractive and responsive across screen sizes. This report focuses on the visual interface rather than functional shopping transactions.

2. PROJECT OBJECTIVES

• Design an easy-to-understand online shopping interface.

• Organize products into recognizable categories.

• Present product prices, ratings and discount details clearly.

• Use responsive CSS to adapt the layout to desktop, tablet and mobile displays.

• Practice semantic HTML and modern CSS layout techniques.

3. TECHNOLOGIES USED

HTML

HTML defines the header, navigation links, promotional banner, category buttons, product cards, product images and footer. Semantic tags such as header, nav, section and article improve organization.

CSS

CSS controls colors, fonts, spacing, borders, shadows, button appearance, responsive grid columns, hover effects and media queries. The design uses a purple color scheme with yellow promotional accents.

4. WEBSITE FEATURES

Navigation Bar

A purple header contains the ShopEasy name, a search input, and Home, Categories, Products and Cart links.

Promotional Banner

A gradient banner announces the shopping festival and highlights offers of up to 50%.

Category Section

Category buttons display All, Electronics, Fashion, Accessories and Home. This HTML/CSS-only report describes their visible presentation, not dynamic filtering.

Featured Products

Eight product cards are arranged in a four-column desktop grid. Each card includes a product image and key shopping details.

Pricing and Discounts

The current price is highlighted in purple, the old price is struck through, and discount information is shown in green.

Responsive Layout

At widths below 900px the grid becomes two columns; below 500px it becomes one column.

Footer

A dark footer displays the store identity, cart message and copyright text.

5. PRODUCT CATALOGUE

• Wireless Headphones — Electronics — ₹1,499

• Smart Watch — Electronics — ₹2,499

• Sports Shoes — Fashion — ₹1,999

• Digital Camera — Accessories — ₹4,999

• Table Lamp — Home — ₹799

• Fashion Handbag — Fashion — ₹1,299

• Smartphone — Electronics — ₹12,999

• Home Decor — Home — ₹999

6. IMPORTANT HTML ELEMENTS

• <header>: Defines the top site header.

• <nav>: Groups the navigation links.

• <section>: Separates major page content.

• <article>: Represents an individual product card.

• <img>: Displays product photographs.

• <button>: Displays category and Add to Cart controls.

• <input>: Creates the search field.

• <footer>: Defines the final site section.

7. IMPORTANT CSS PROPERTIES

• display: grid: Creates a multi-column product layout.

• grid-template-columns: Defines the number of columns.

• display: flex: Arranges header and navigation items.

• linear-gradient: Creates the banner background.

• box-shadow: Adds depth to product cards.

• border-radius: Rounds buttons and cards.

• object-fit: cover: Keeps product photographs neatly cropped.

• @media: Adjusts layout for smaller screens.

8. DEVELOPMENT PROCESS

• Plan the main shopping page sections and visual theme.

• Create the header, banner, category area, product grid and footer in HTML.

• Apply typography, colors, spacing, card styles and hover effects using CSS.

• Add product images, prices, ratings and discount information.

• Write media queries for tablet and mobile screen widths.

• Review the page visually and correct layout or alignment issues.

9. ADVANTAGES

The interface is simple to navigate, visually consistent and responsive. Product details are grouped into readable cards. The layout can serve as a foundation for a more complete online store.

10. LIMITATIONS

HTML and CSS alone do not implement product searching, category filtering, cart calculations, checkout, account login or persistent storage. Buttons and search fields in the HTML/CSS-only version are visual controls unless functionality is added separately.

11. FUTURE IMPROVEMENTS

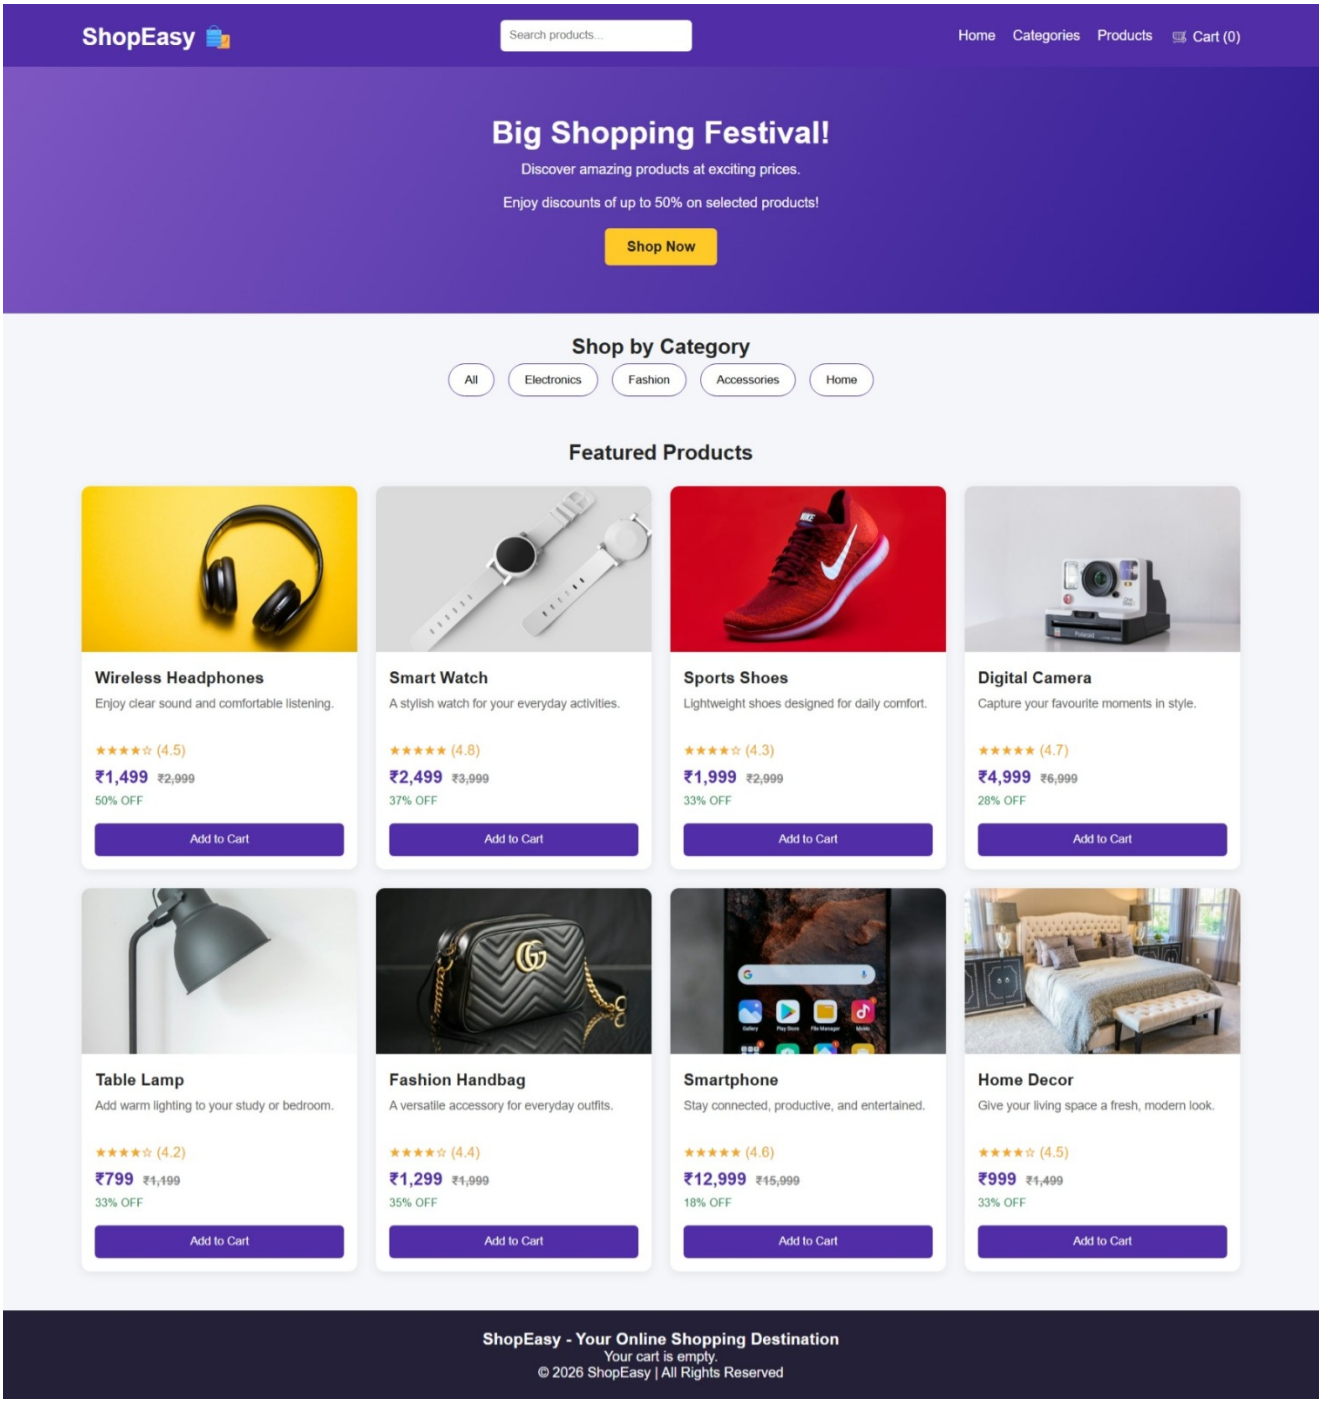

Possible extensions include working search and category filtering, a persistent shopping cart, user authentication, checkout, payment integration, product inventory and a database-backed admin panel.

12. CONCLUSION

ShopEasy demonstrates how HTML and CSS can produce a professional-looking online shopping interface. The project showcases semantic page structure, product-card presentation, responsive grids and consistent visual styling.
